

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention relates to a multipart business form that includes at least one removable and potentially formable identification card, band, tag or badge on one portion of the substrate and at least one separable postcard on the second portion of the multipart business form. The postcard portion can be used as a response piece, request for information or simply as a remembrance piece for an event which triggered the issuance of the identification portion.